- Can demonstrate a commitment to Continuing Professional Development of self and others.
- Must have made a worthy contribution to the objectives of the Institute, e.g.
 - made a significant contribution as a member of one of the Institute's National Boards or Forums (not simply participating but making a significant contribution to the success of a policy or strategy or initiative).

And/or

- Represented the Institute on an external body whose work has a major influence on the ISRM

And/or

- Contributed to the work of an external body which has been of significant value to that body and that contribution has enhanced the reputation of the ISRM

Supplementary criteria that will be taken into account include:
